Annexures

Annexure I- Best Practices

1 Best institutional practice–I

1.1 Title of the Practice: Teacher Performance Record (TPR)

1.2 Goals

1. Optimize teaching and learning process.
2. Improve the quality of instruction by ensuring accountability for classroom performance and teacher effectiveness.
3. Contribute to successful achievement of the goals and objectives of the College.
4. Provide a basis for instructional improvement through productive teacher performance appraisal and professional growth.

1.3 The context

- Assessment of the effectiveness of teaching quantitatively is a difficult task.
- Even when the Key Performance Indicators(KPIs) are well defined and measurable, it will only give the assessment of overall institutional performance.
- To assess the performance of individual teachers, it is necessary to quantify his/her contributions in various aspects of teaching and learning process.

1.4 The practice

The submission of Teacher Performance Record TPR by each teacher is a system of self-appraisal devised by IQAC. The format of TPR was developed in accordance with the UGC guidelines for maintenance of standards in higher education 2010. The teachers are required to fill up the columns in the TPR each day showing the details of the work done on that day and get the entries verified by the HoD. The TPR has provisions to show

- Teaching-learning, evaluation related entries
  - Classroom teaching, practical, assignment, project work
  - Field work and guidance of students, FA related works, SA related works
  - Invigilation, question paper setting, evaluation/ assessment of answer scripts
- Extension, co-curricular related entries
  - co-curricular, extension and field based activities
  - participation in academic and administrative committees and responsibilities
  - participation in seminars, conferences, short term training courses
  - talks, lectures, membership of association, dissemination and general articles
- Research & academic contributions
  - Research Papers published in Refereed/non-Refereed Journals
  - Work on ongoing sponsored major/minor projects, Consultancy offered
- Training programmes, refresher courses
  - Workshops, Training, Teaching-Learning Evaluation & Technology Programmes
  - Soft skills development Programmes, Faculty Development Programmes

The faculty submit the filled up TPR before the HoD, who after verification submits it to the IQAC each month. Objectivity is brought to the self-appraisal system by assigning appropriate weightages/scores to different aspects assessed in the appraisal. At the end of the semester, the grades and weightages are added to obtain a final grade, which is a clear indication of the effectiveness of the performance of the faculty. The score given to each activity is identical to that suggested by the UGC regulations 2010, but without the ceiling of maximum score suggested in the regulations.

The IQAC collects the filled up TPR, calculates the score of each teacher and finds out the average score of the institution. The faculty with scores less than the average score of the institution is intimated that their performance fall below the average performance of the institution.

1.5 Evidence of success

The following facts stand as testimony of the achievement of the objectives of the practice:

- Clarity in the teacher performance requirements
- Teachers try to perform above the institutional average, thereby improving the overall institutional performance
- TPR can be used as an indicator for career advancement

1.6 Problems encountered

- A spreadsheet application has to be created for grade calculation
- Performance data of all faculty members have to be entered to get the individual and institutional grades.

1.7 Resources required

- Printing costs
- Services of a coordinating faculty for grade calculation

- Minimal Computational facility with spreadsheet application for grade calculation

2.2 Goals

1. To assess quantitatively, the attainment of desired graduate attributes in students

2.3 The context

- The expectation that graduates are able to demonstrate the attributes needed for learning, work, and life is shared by employers, the community and graduates alike.
- Pavanatma has accepted and responded to this expectation by defining a list of desired graduate attributes, requiring that these are embedded in all college programmes.

- However, assessing graduate attributes has proven to be a major challenge for the college, since the examination system of the University does not incorporate parameters needed for the assessment of these parameters.
